Grade 3-5: Getting in Character with Greg Ochitwa

Aim: This session will give students the opportunity to participate in a live broadcast with professional theatre artist Greg Ochitwa.

This workshop will show teachers and students one approach to writing a scene and the stages an actor may go through when interpreting a script.

Creative/Productive: Students will create their own short scene and then interpret another classmate’s work.

Critical/Responsive: Students will have the opportunity to ask theatre artist Greg Ochitwa questions about his life as a professional actor and playwright.

Cultural/Historical: Students will learn about the work of Canadian playwrights and the nature of Canadian theatre.

Materials and Resources

Students will need paper and pencils/pens for a writing activity during the broadcast. Students will also be working with a partner during this writing activity. Teachers may wish to assign partners prior to the broadcast.

Teacher Guide for Hands-on Workshop Segment of the Broadcast

PART 2: 15 min. Teacher-guided hands-on workshop activity. Writing a short scene.

1. Working on a flip-chart or board, list the elements that students will need to include in their scene. Refer back to broadcast example: 1 to 2 characters; location; a problem; problem gets worse; solution.
2. Have students work individually to write a brief paragraph (scene) that uses all of the above-mentioned elements. If students are struggling for ideas refer them back to the Pair/Share activity.
3. If time permits, have students share their scene with their partners.

PART 4: 20 min. Teacher-guided hands-on workshop activity. Interpreting a scene.

1. Working on a flip-chart or board, list the stages of interpreting a scene that students will follow during this activity. Refer back to broadcast example for stages of interpreting a scene:
  - Read through -- making sense of a scene.
  - Identifying characters. Who are the characters? Looking for clues.
  - Analyze stage directions
  - How setting and activity is revealed in the script.
2. Have students trade scenes with their partners (the challenge is to interpret someone else's scene). Working individually, students should quietly work through the stages of interpreting the scene (let them know that they are allowed to read it aloud to themselves). Give students 5-10 min. to work on their interpretations.
3. Have students present their interpretations to their partners. Then, if time permits have several students present their scenes to the class.
